

FlowVision®, LLC Receives Special Recognition Supplier of the Year Award from Cisco Systems

November 18, 2005 – FlowVision®, LLC today announced that it has received the “Special recognition Supplier of the Year Award” from Cisco Systems, Inc. FlowVision was selected for demonstrating the ability to significantly contribute innovation that has positively impacted the satisfaction level of Cisco’s customers. This prestigious award was one of 11 presented to valued Cisco suppliers at the company’s 15th annual supplier appreciation awards program held on November 18, 2005.

“For fourteen years, our supplier appreciation awards have recognized companies that have demonstrated outstanding leadership in their respective areas of expertise, including technology, quality, delivery, and service,” said Steve Darendinger, vice president, Global Supplier Management, Cisco Systems, Inc. “They routinely exceed expectations and we are pleased to recognize their efforts with this award.”

“Flow Vision has been a valuable asset to the success of Cisco LEAN and has worked diligently with our design and implementation team to validate and implement concepts on our partner sites. They supported contract manufacturers with best-practice factory design,” said Cisco Vice President Don McLaughlin, who presented FlowVision representatives with the award at the annual supplier awards banquet.

Mike Henderson of FlowVision stated, “On behalf of FlowVision David Pytel and I are proud to accept this prestigious award. Working with Cisco Systems and all of their contract manufacturers over the past year to give them guidance and direction during the implementation of lean has been a pleasure. The benefits Cisco is seeing are well worth the effort put into this project.” A panel of representatives from Cisco’s manufacturing organization selected recipients of the 2005 Cisco Supplier Appreciation Awards.

About FlowVision

At FlowVision, we pride ourselves on being 100% referenceable and developing long-term relationships with our clients. We differentiate ourselves from traditional consulting organizations by utilizing only our senior level experts in the discipline of Lean/Flow manufacturing. We roll up our sleeves and provide a very practical yet innovative approach to each and every client issue – whether through our workshops or application in a specialized implementation. We deliver the tools to your organization to help achieve and sustain the benefits you desire. We will help you to realize your vision.

The applicability of lean/flow has been proven around the world in every conceivable industry. Our hands on experts have worked with over 250 companies from Fortune 50 to less than 50 person companies, and have led successful implementations in industries from air products to textile, material handling equipment to fluid control, medical products to aerospace, and process industry to motors.

To learn more about FlowVision[®] contact us at 970.262.6536 or email us at info@flowvision.com
www.flowvision.com